THE NEWSLETTER OF CYCLING VALUES! SEPTEMBER EDITION 2003

WHAT'S NEW AT R+E CYCLES!

Lots of new stuff is up this winter at R+E Cycles!

Our website, <http://www.rodcycle.com>, has several interesting upgrades!

You can now download our newsletter on-line from our website as a PDF file. You can be the first to receive the newsletter, and read it while you're at work! Or, you can print it out, and read it while you're at lunch (your boss will appreciate this greatly). You can sign up for our e-mail update for this (see page 2 for more details).

The next website upgrade is the on-line specials! Now you can save big and order products direct from the secure website to be shipped directly to your home. The specials on the site include about 15 items right now, but will be changing and expanding throughout the winter, so you'll want to check it frequently. The deals on the site will not always be the same as the deals in the newsletter or the deals in the store.

The website is growing to include the Bianchi bicycles that we carry in our store also.

The University of R+E Cycles is opening back up this winter! For several years, we offered the most

CONGRATULATIONS TO ALL THE DANSKIN FINISHERS!

What a great day for a race, wasn't it? Those of you who participated deserve a great big thank you for making the world's largest triathlon happen, here in Seattle. R+E was excited to participate by providing mechanical support as well as participating in Team Danskin Training and Camp Danskin. On the day of the race it was fun to see so many familiar faces and exciting to see so many RODRIGUEZ STELLARS.

Many of the triathletes who participated were already accomplished athletes and many of you were first timers. I know many of you struggled through the swim with a tenacity that boggles my mind. Others had never ridden on anything other than a bike path and were now wondering how their gears worked. Those with bad knees persevered through the run for the sheer joy of that final finish line!

I'd love to encourage you to stay in shape this winter so you can come back next year and have an easier or faster or more enjoyable race. There are lots of master swim programs that welcome new swimmers, and other training groups that work out all winter. You can purchase a heart rate monitor so you can train smarter or a wind trainer so you can ride your bike in the comfort of your own home. We hope the joy of that finish line can stay with you until next year!! Congratulations again!

KEEP ON TRI-ING

Some people think of September as Back to School Month and others think of it as Triathlon Month. This month many folks did a sprint distance race for the first time and find themselves in great shape right now. What to do next? There are still a number of great races quite close to home. As a matter of fact the Escape from the Rock in Mercer Island and the Kirkland Sprint Triathlon happen the first two week-ends in September. If you want to do a longer distance you might want to look into the Black Hills Tri early in the month or the Black Diamond races at the end of the month. We encourage you to keep having fun.

SPARTACUS

MY MOM KICKS BUTT!!!

You all know me, Dan, as Nicholas' dad, or as the long haired guy that you see fixing bikes, or remodelling the store etc.... but you don't know my mom!

Last May, I drove to Spokane to participate in our family's yearly Bloomsday ritual. Every year, since 1992 or so, we all meet there and do the Bloomsday run. This year though, was a little special. You see, Ken, her triathlete hubby, had called me in advance to order a little surprise...a Rodriguez Stellar, custom painted red. The unveiling went as planned in the motel room, and a triathlete was born!

My mom, Sally Stephens, (age 60 to 65) then decided to prepare for the Danskin triathlon in Seattle. She lives in Rupert Idaho, a farm town of about 2000 people. She trained for the swim by swimming with the dead fish parts in the canal out by their house. She trained for the bike leg by racing the various farm dogs on the country roads around Rupert. Training for the run was easy. Running through the bugs out by the dam is both aerobically healthy, and protein enriched.

After all of this training, she put her new skills to use by competing in a small triathlon series in Burley. When I say small, I mean about 12 to 40 people including all participants. When I say series, I mean 3 triathlons that work up to a sprint distance.

She couldn't tell from her performance against 12 very strong, young men, how competitive she was becoming. By the time the Danskin rolled around, she knew she would finish, but had no idea how well she could do. Well, she finished 2nd place in her age group with an impressive time of 1:38. That's only 5 minutes from first place!

15:42 swim / 43:03 bike / 32:27 run

I talked with her about the race afterward and asked her few questions. Here's how she answered them:

Biggest surprise: Not used to the waves during the open water swim. The canal water is very calm, and I need to work on breathing to the right side.

Favorite part: Definitely the bike ride! Ken's already planning the equipment upgrades!

Opportunities for improvement: Learning how to gauge where I'm at in the run. I had a lot of energy left at the end, and had I known earlier, I could have stepped up my pace.

General comments: It's just a really neat event. It really helps that it's all women. It gives it a much different atmosphere. Danskin does a great job organizing the event. The Danskin Expo was like the Bloomsday Expo on Estrogen. It's really great that at our age, we can still do stuff like this.

That's my mom
-Dan Towle

Unfortunately, the best picture Ken got was of mom tying her shoe laces

BLINDED BY THE LIGHT!

Our favorite lighting system of all time!

Every year at R+E Cycles, we sell lots & lots of lighting systems to cyclists who ride in the dark. In the winter, it is dark at 5:00 PM, and some people like to have the finest lighting system available.

There are several things that make a lighting system great:

- Brightness (will it light up the road, or is it just a safety precaution?)
- Burn time of the battery (will it give you good light for your full ride?)
- Reliability (what experiences have others had with the system?)
- Warranty (how long will you be without your lights if they break?)
- Value (does it fit your budget?)

SAVE 10%

Over the years, we have found that several of the lighting systems on the market measure up in some or most of these qualities, but only one meets all of them. The CYGOLITE™ Night Rover is the light that we have chosen to be our featured light system. It features:

- 16.3 Watts of halogen power (bright enough to see the road well)
- 3 beam patterns (10W narrow, 6.3W wide, 16.3W dual)
- Quick release mount (for quick removal & reinstallation)
- Lightweight thermo-plastic casing (extremely durable)
- 6 hour battery burn time (battery fits in water bottle cage)
- Side to side swivel for excellent peripheral vision
- 1-year warranty on the lights, 3-month on the battery
- Upgradeable to helmet mount (kit sold separately)
- Reg. price of 124.99 (compare at over $200)

The best feature for this system is not something that one can see immediately in the product. It's the quality of the product, and CYGOLITE's willingness to stand behind that product.

IF YOUR LIGHT FAILS UNDER WARRANTY, WHAT HAPPENS?

OTHER BRANDS (We've carried them all)-

Our policy, when possible, is to give the customer a new light if theirs fails under warranty, instead of sending it in for repair while the customer waits (sometimes a month or more). In the past, we have had a hard time with the lighting companies standing behind their product, even on a very expensive light. We found a high number of failures in almost every brand that we carried, and no willingness on their part to send us a replacement light.

CYGOLITE-

We have sold CYGOLITE product since 1996, and had the lowest failure rate that we have ever experienced in a lighting system. On the rare occasion that there is a warranty failure, the customer has left our store with a new part.....no waiting, and CYGOLITE took care of sending us a new product pronto!

For a limited time only, we will sell you the CYGOLITE Night Rover for just $112

Offer expires September 20 2003. Limited to stock on hand
